Programme Notes

This concert marks the debut of Singaporean conductor Darrell Ang as the Principal Guest Conductor of the Singapore Chinese Orchestra. Winner of the prestigious 50th Besançon International Competition for Young Conductors in France, he is currently the Artistic Director of the Sichuan Symphony Orchestra in China, and one of the most prominent Chinese conductors active on the international stage today. Known for his refined musical sensibility, Ang is also admired for his curatorial vision that bridges cultures and transcends genres.

Titled A Bug's Life, the concert explores the wondrous diversity of insects as imagined by composers, through a vibrant blend of classical, folk, and contemporary musical languages. As both conductor and curator, Ang contributes his own original work — A Bug's Life (Paraphrase on a theme by Alexander Scriabin) and infuses the programme with his personal reflections on the natural world based on a long-standing fascination with the lives of insects. The concert opens with Butterfly Overture by Ge Gan-Ru. Originally written for symphony orchestra, the work is anchored by a soaring solo violin line that evokes the delicate flutter of a butterfly, set against a dreamlike, sweeping orchestral backdrop. Ge, who was trained as a violinist before switching to composition in his third year of study, brings a string player's intuition to his writing—merging expressive lyricism with structural clarity and emotional resonance.

According to the composer, Butterfly Overture is a heartfelt tribute to his mentor Chen Gang, one of China's most celebrated composers and pedagogues. Chen championed the primacy of emotion
